McCarthy edged RFK in debate poll of Californians shows

Glimmer of hope in peace deadlock

PARIS (AP) — A member of President Johnson's negotiating team said Sunday he has told the President a long, tough road probably lies ahead in the quest for Vietnam peace through talks in Paris. But recent developments provide a glimmer of hope that the deadlock which has balked progress for three weeks can be broken.

It is just a glimmer. The hints, coming from North Vietnam and the Soviet Union, were vague—so vague that diplomatic circles here hesitated to arouse expectations about them. The American delegation carefully examined the latest North Vietnamese statement for evidence of a change, possible after the arrival here today of Le Duc Tho, a top-ranking member of Hanoi's ruling Communist Politburo.

The announcement of Tho's mission to Paris, plus the return Sunday of Ambassador Cyrus R. Vance to resume his place in the talks after consultation with President Johnson, raised speculation that some movement might be in progress.

Vance said on his arrival at Bretigny military airport—the civilian fields are closed by strikes — "I have received no new instructions from the President. Our position continues to be that which was laid down by the President in his speech of March 31."

"I told the President and others in Washington that the road ahead looked long and difficult, but that I was not discouraged."

The President, he added, likewise remained undismayed by the prospective difficulties.

Authorities said a tank car containing ammonia was among those that derailed, but there was no apparent leakage. Other cars contained coke, coal, and steel.

J. P. Spreng, a Penn Central supervisor in Altoona, said passenger trains were derailed through Lock Haven and Williamsport as a result of the wreck. He estimated damage at upwards of $200,000.

Six S. Vietnam officials killed by rocket in Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — A rocket fired during a battle inside Saigon Sunday killed six high-ranking South Vietnamese officials, the U.S. Mission said there was a "strong probability" that it was fired by an American gunship helicopter.

The mission, in a statement Monday, expressed "deepest regrets and condolences" to the Saigon government and the families of the victims.

Four other officials were wounded.

Among those identified as killed was the brother-in-law of Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky. Col. Van Van Cua, Saigon's mayor, was reported to have been seriously wounded.

The rocket hit after U.S. Army helicopter gunships were called into the fight inside the city proper for the first time since the Viet Cong launched their offensive May 5.

The gunships covered South Vietnamese ground troops and tanks trying to halt a small guerrilla force that had advanced 11 blocks in three days and held advantageous firing positions in a residential block less than three miles from the presidential palace.

The enemy troops, reported to number only 30 to 40, were equipped with .50-caliber machine guns and bazooka-type rockets.

Ground troops had been unable to root them out in three days of action and the gunships were called after civilians moved out of the area in Cholon, Saigon's Chinese quarter.

The party of South Vietnamese military and city officials had been touring battle areas in and around Saigon and had reached the scene of the Cholon fighting shortly before 6 p.m.

South Vietnamese police sources said a preliminary investigation indicated the missile was a B40 antitank rocket used by the Viet Cong. They added, however, that fragments were being examined further to make a final determination.

Sources at police headquarters and the capital military district gave these identities of the dead:

Ky's brother-in-law, Col. Phlo Quoc Chu, director of the port of Saigon; Col. Nguyen Van Luan, Saigon city police chief; Col. Le Ngoc Trau, commander of Saigon's 5th Police Precinct; Maj. Nguyen Ngoc Xinh, chief of staff of joint operations for the national police; Maj. Nguyen Bao Thu, chief of the mayor's cabinet and brother of the former minister of revolutionary development, and Lt. Col. Nguyen Van Phuoc, commander of the 5th Ranger Group.

Besides Mayor Cua, the wounded were listed as Col. Tran Van Phan, chief of staff of the national police director, severe leg wounds; marine Col. Nguyen Van Giam, deputy chief of the capital military district, slightly wounded; and a Maj. To, commander of the 5th Combat Police Battalion, light injuries.

One of three weekend heart recipients alive

NEW YORK (AP) — The drama of heart transplant surgery was enacted three times over the weekend from one end of the Western Hemisphere to the other but only one patient was still alive Sunday.

He was salesman Antonio Enrique Serrano, 54, Argentina's first heart transplant recipient. He remained unconscious in a clinic outside Buenos Aires while Argentine doctors debated whether the operation, carried out Friday, should have been conducted at all.

The world's total of human heart transplants was pushed to 20 Saturday when a surgeon who taught Dr. Christian Barnard tried to place the heart of a suicide victim into the chest of an unidentified male at New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center. The transplanted heart refused to beat by itself and the patient died.

While that operation was under way, two transplant victims died. One was Albert Murphy, 59, who became Canada's first such patient Friday. The other was Joseph G. Klett, 54, of Orange, Va., who received his new heart a week before in Richmond.

The flurry of heart transplants that South Africa's Barnard started last Dec. 3, left seven patients alive Sunday, two in Houston, Tex., and one each in Paris, London, South Africa, Brazil and Argentina.

In Buenos Aires, a medical bulletin issued Sunday said Serrano "was progressing satisfactorily" but acknowledged he had not yet recovered consciousness. A heart patient whose condition was depicted as "incurable," he was given the heart of a 47-year-old labor leader at the small Clinica Modelo in Lanus, a working-class city outside Buenos Aires.

The Argentine controversy over Serrano's operation centered on whether the South American country had sufficient sanitary surgical facilities to successfully carry out a transplant operation.

Serrano's physician, Dr. Miguel Bellizzi, 42, a U.S.-trained heart surgeon, turned his back on the controversy. "I have no time for polemics," he said. "If I have to perform an operation I do so and try to save the patient's life."

But Dr. Pedro Cossio, 68, a renowned Argentine cardiologist, cautioned that human heart transplants should be limited to three or four of the world's best-equipped medical centers. "We are by no means ready in this country to undertake human heart transplants," he said.

The New York operation was directed by Dr. C. Walton Lillehei, 49, a pioneer heart surgeon who taught Barnard at the University of Minnesota and who is credited with developing the heart-lung machine which made open heart surgery a reality.

His 3½-hour operation ended in failure when the transplanted heart stopped beating after a heart-lung machine used during the surgery was turned off.

The donor was Mario Codomo, 29, of the Bronx, who killed himself with a gunshot wound in the head a few hours before the transplant operation began. The hospital said his kidneys were transplanted into two young men in their 20s in simultaneous operations. One kidney recipient died of heart failure. The other was reported doing "very well."

In Montreal, hospital officials said Murphy's death was caused by pulmonary and kidney complications that were secondary to a blood clotting condition that had caused concern earlier.

Holiday death toll climbing at 488

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Memorial Day weekend traffic death toll across the nation climbed rapidly Sunday but National Safety Council spokesmen continued to express guarded optimism the final total would be under their estimates of from 625 to 725 dead.

As the homeward bound rush began the death toll in traffic accidents stood at 488.

A total of 488 traffic fatalities were counted during a recent nonholiday period of the same length. Last year's death toll for the Memorial Day observance was 608, a record for the four day holiday.

National Safety Council spokesmen reminded motorists that no matter when people began their holiday, most drivers would be returning home before Monday. The spokesmen said the only way for the death toll to be held in check was for motorists to observe caution and make use of safety devices, such as safety belts, at all times.

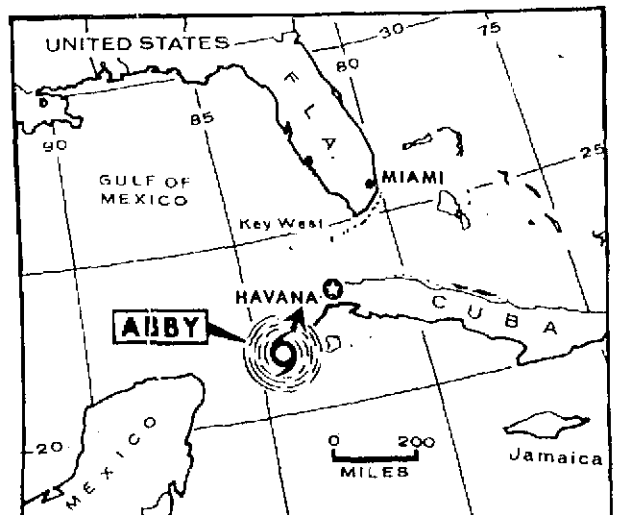

The Memorial Day traffic fatality count covered the 102 hour period that began at 6 p.m. Wednesday and ended at midnight Sunday.

The weekend began with gray skies and hazardous driving conditions over much of the nation but cleared Saturday bringing fine spring weather and clear skies. The fine weather apparently lured large additional numbers of motorists onto the highways.

The record traffic toll for any warm weather holiday period is 732, set during the four-day Independence Day observance last year.

The recent nonholiday count of 488 highway deaths was made by The Associated Press for comparison against this year's Memorial Day toll. The survey covered the period from 6 p.m. Wednesday, May 15, to midnight Sunday, May 19.

In other outdoor accidents over the current weekend, bathing mishaps claimed 34 lives and 81 persons drowned.

Tropical storm Abby sets course for Florida

Tropical storm nears Florida

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — An early tropical disturbance spawned Sunday at the western tip of Cuba and quickly puffed into a tropical storm on a course toward the southwest coast of Florida.

Dr. Robert H. Simpson, director of the National Hurricane Center at Miami, said gale warnings would be posted along the south and southwest Florida coast at 6 p.m. (EDT) for the storm christened Abby.

Rains from the storm pattern already were pelting the Miami area and winds gusting to 35 miles were measured by the Weather Bureau at Miami International Airport.

The storm, with sustained winds of 46 miles per hour and gusts somewhat higher in squalls, moved over the western tip of Cuba late Sunday afternoon and was spotted by aircraft, satellites and radar at a spot about 270 miles southwest of Key West, Fla., Simpson said.

Simpson said Abby was on a heading of 25 degrees, a tangent that he said would carry it ashore just south of Fort Myers, Fla.

"I think it's too early to say any one area is going to get the brunt of it," Simpson said, explaining that Cuba's mountains could divert the storm from its present course. "All interests along the west and south coasts of Florida and the Keys should remain alert for future advances and the possibility that Abby could become a serious threat to some areas of South Florida."

The 1968 tropical storm season officially opened just Saturday but even if the storm developed the 74 m.p.h. winds of hurricane strength, it would not be the earliest hurricane ever. Hurricanes have been recorded in every month but April.

Simpson recently assumed command of the Hurricane Center and Abby is his first storm. He described Abby's sudden birth as "a screwball situation" which he said was caused by the merger of an old cold front with a low pressure system moving in from the Pacific Ocean.

Gov. Shafer graduation speaker

OXFORD, Pa. (AP) — Gov. Shafer said Sunday "the revolution of black America" has given the nation the new sense of leadership and priorities needed to make it live up to its promise. "That the black American has so forcefully protested his poverty and inequality in the midst of abundance has shown white America how close to historical selfishness it has come," the governor told the graduating class of predominantly Negro Lincoln University.

Shafer likened the condition of modern America to plastic products. "Plastic, of course, works well and seldom, if ever, shows signs of age until the moment it ceases to work," he noted.

"That's what is happening in America. Our institutions are breaking up without warning. And those who have lived so comfortably and securely within the bosom of these institutions for so long are shocked and disoriented."

The governor said the class of 1968 must decide whether it wants to repair the institutions and change them within the framework of the democratic process.

Helen Keller dies

Death is not end of life

EASTON, Conn. (AP) — Helen Keller once wrote: "Death is not the end of life, but only one of its most important experiences."

That experience came to the inspirational blind and deaf author Saturday at her country home, Arden Ridge, where the 87-year-old Miss Keller had lived quietly in recent years.

Her body will be cremated Monday after private services and there will be a memorial service later this week at the National Cathedral in Washington, D.C.

Miss Keller, who would have been 88 June 27, died of "natural causes after a prolonged illness," according to her physician, Dr. Morris Chick. "She died gently, with a smile on her face."

Miss Keller was born in Tuscon, Ala., and until she was 19 months old led a normal life. Then she was stricken with a fever that left her blind and deaf, unable to speak more than a few childish words, imprisoned during early childhood in a world she could not cope with.

Acting on the advice of Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone, Miss Keller's parents finally sent to the Perkins School of the Blind in Watertown, Mass., for a teacher.

That teacher—a young Irish girl named Anne Sullivan—opened a new world to the handicapped child. Their friendship, to last almost 50 years, was made famous in the play and film, "The Miracle Worker."

Using the finger tapping manual alphabet, Miss Sullivan tried to break through the wall of blindness and deafness.

Miss Keller, who began to write while a student at Radcliffe College, led a busy life, both as an author and as a friend to the handicapped throughout the world.

She traveled to more than 35 countries on five continents in behalf of the blind and when she was 75 made a 40,000-mile journey through Asia.

Miss Keller, who said "she wanted to do those 'less fortunate than myself,' once wrote, 'The more we try to help each other and make life brighter, the happier we shall be.'"

Miss Keller is survived by a brother, Philip B. Keller of Dallas, and a sister, Mrs. Mildred Tyson of Montgomery, Ala.

Italy observes anniversary

ROME (AP) — The Italian republic observed its 22nd anniversary Sunday gripped by political crisis and faced with spreading social convulsion copying from France.

The center-left coalition that had governed for the past five years lay in shatters. The Socialist party, leaders of more than a million votes in last month's national election, decided Saturday night against rejoining the Christian Democrats in a new government.

The country's Communist-led left wing, flushed by record gains in the election, was calling for nationwide demonstrations to support workers and students in France.

1959 last major strike

Steelworkers open talks

NEW YORK (AP) — The AFL-CIO United Steelworkers Union opens talks with the 11 major steel producers today, after signing a new three-year pact covering half the nation's aluminum workers.

However, the two aluminum giants, Alcoa and Reynolds, were struck over the weekend by another union—the AFL-CIO Aluminum Workers.

Alcoa, far the largest producer, reported half its capacity knocked out.

The steel talks, covering 480,000 employees, open in the most optimistic atmosphere in years. For the first time, thousands of local issues were narrowed down in six-weeks of preliminary discussions.

There hasn't been a major steel strike since a 115-day walkout in 1959, although the White House has had to intervene several times. The present 35-month contract, which expires Aug. 1, was agreed upon in 1965 after President Johnson stepped in.

The 33-man steelworkers union executive board, headed by President I. W. Abel, met Sunday to plan strategy. An afternoon meeting of the 200-member negotiating advisory committee followed.

The union has said it would demand a six per cent raise in pay and fringe benefits. The union says wages now average $3.83 an hour. The industry figures wages and fringe benefits total $4.88 an hour.

The six per cent boost would be less than a union spokesman said was won from the five largest aluminum producers over the weekend.

He said the new aluminum contract exceeded the 6.1 per cent won recently in the can industry. Copper workers got an eight per cent raise after a nine-month strike.

The steelworkers union, which represents half of the 60,000 aluminum workers, and the United Auto Workers, which represents about 4,700 workers at Aluminum Co. of America — Alcoa — agreed to about the same terms. The auto workers staged a one-day strike before settling late Saturday.

But the Aluminum Workers Union rejected the steelworkers formula—which usually sets the industry pattern—and called out 11,000 members at Alcoa and another 4,000 at Reynolds.

Separate talks between the aluminum workers and the two firms fell apart Saturday and the negotiators left New York for their homes. Alcoa is based in Pittsburgh, Reynolds in Richmond, Va., and the Aluminum Workers Union in St. Louis.

The steelworkers pact covered five aluminum firms—Alcoa, Reynolds, Kaiser, Ormet and Olin.

Economy still stalled

French enjoy holiday

PARIS (AP) — Thousands of Frenchmen relaxed in the sun Sunday at the middle of a three-day holiday weekend, while the country's economy remained virtually paralyzed by a strike which workers in major industries and services have so far refused to break.

Scores of drivers headed away from the cities as gasoline supplies returned to normal. But labor union leaders, government ministers and industry executives stayed behind to hammer out social and labor reforms promised by President Charles de Gaulle.

Despite the optimistic trend of many negotiations, like those of gas, electricity and civil aviation employees, the country faced the uneasy prospect of returning to work Tuesday—after Pentecost Monday—without any rail or urban transport. Subway, bus, and national railway talks were reported deadlocked in Paris.

No major demonstration was reported in France Sunday.

But thousands of workers and students still occupied factories and universities, which they turned into dormitories and meeting halls.

At Sorbonne University early Sunday student leader Daniel Cohn-Bendit, urged a packed amphitheater of 7,000 students to form "resistance committees" to oppose work resumption and "Gaulism," the French face of capitalism.

Cohn-Bendit, a 23-year-old red-haired sociology major, also said he opposed the general legislative elections scheduled for June 23 and 30 by De Gaulle after the dissolution of Parliament last Thursday.

Political parties, anxious to meet the June 9 deadline for final candidates, held emergency meetings of their executive committees over the weekend. The Communists have decided to run alone, without relying on an alliance with other left-wing parties in the first round of elections.

Premier Georges Pompidou presided over a meeting of Gaullist Democratic Union party leaders late Saturday to begin charting strategy.

There were scattered reports of a back-to-work movement on Tuesday. Paris department stores said they would reopen if their employees approved a new contract.

Several oil refineries lighted up again.

Paris race tracks—horse and greyhound—and the off-course betting system announced they would be open Tuesday.

But the postal system was not expected to be fully operating until at least Tuesday afternoon—if then—since workers were called to vote on new reforms this morning.

President de Gaulle spent a quiet Sunday at his Elysee Palace.

Cypriots in Beirut for talks

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Official representatives of the Greek and Turkish Cypriot communities, Glafcos Clerides and Raouf Denktash, arrived by plane in Beirut Sunday to begin the first official talks between the two warring sides in 4½ years.

The unannounced journey of the two men from Nicosia followed two weeks of intensive efforts by the special U.N. representative in Cyprus, B. Osorio-Lafall, to break a procedural deadlock that had stalled the start of talks for nearly three months.

Clerides is the president of the Cyprus House of Representatives. Denktash is the president of the Turkish Cypriot Communal Chamber.

The two were picked as official representatives of the respective sides after the Greek and Turkish Cypriot leadership accepted a proposal by U.N. Secretary-General U Thant in March for bilateral talks.

The start of the talks was held up until now because the Greek side insisted the talks should be held in Cyprus under U.N. auspices, while the Turkish side maintained the talks should take place outside Cyprus without U.N. involvement.

Teacher who taught two years without pay will retire in June

By PEGGY BANCROFT
Record Correspondent

NEWFOUNDLAND — A teacher who taught for two years without pay, who "graduated" from first, then second, and then third grade with her class, and who has taught in the Newfoundland Elementary Center for 24 years of her 31 teaching years, has announced her retirement at the close of the present school term.

She is Miss H. Arvilla Stackhouse, who looks forward to a new adventure in another part of the world she has never seen.

When she closes the school books, totals up the lunch money, shuts the doors and walks out of the school building, she is heading toward "something interesting," whether it is business, or in a little more relaxed living.

Darby native

The daughter of Jennie and Francis Stackhouse, she was born in Darby, Delaware County. Educated in Darby schools and Temple University, Philadelphia, she had an unusual beginning to her teaching career.

Since the Darby School system frowned upon having a teacher who had once been a Darby student, began immediately in a teaching position there, she interned for two years without pay.

One year of this internship was in the third grade, and the other was in all elementary grades. She then substituted for two years, and then became a regular member of the faculty for seven years.

The superintendent of the school district instituted an unusual procedure of moving the teacher along with the class, so that she could see for herself what was needed. So for three years, she taught the same class, in first, second and third grades.

Pocono camping trip

She then came to the Poconos on a camping trip. She pitched her tent in Promised Land State Park, and she fell in love with the Poconos.

She found a position open in the second grade in Newfoundland, and there she has been ever since.

How has the second grade changed in the past 24 years?

"I think we are busier. We have less time and more work to cover. And it is more hectic, with other teachers coming in to take music or art or other subjects we formerly taught ourselves. But children in the second grade have remained the same: interested in everything; ready to work; eager to learn," Miss Stackhouse said.

Miss Stackhouse has enjoyed the hobby of painting and crafts ever since she can remember, and it is art that will probably occupy her in her move. She plans, together with a friend, Miss Violet Minton, who has made her home with her for 26 years, to go to Florida for the winter, perhaps setting up a gift and art shop similar to the one Miss Minton has managed for several years in Promised Land.

Rev. Bohner stresses acceptance of values

BRODHEADSVILLE — The 50 graduating seniors stood motionless but with anticipation as the words of the Invocation were given to start the Baccalaureate and Commencement Exercises in Pleasant Valley Junior-Senior High School on Sunday afternoon.

The Class of 1968 was then addressed by Salutatorian, Connie Green, as she placed the question, "Are we an Addicted Society?" before them in their look to the future.

Miss Green questioned this as a means of exploring the unknown in life and told her classmates that this is a decision of primary importance as graduates.

Drugs a disease

She concluded that the danger of drugs should be accepted as a "disease requiring treatment rather than a crime requiring punishment."

A gently flowing arrangement of the "Impossible Dream," the class's motto, followed by the voices of the 50 seniors dressed in their class colors of blue gowns and caps with silver tassels, and a white rose, the class flower.

The Rev. Adan A. Bohner focused his address to each individual and related all the real values they should accept "On Being a Person." He cited the influences of inheritance and community environment on their "person."

Be real person

"You will not be alone in this world," Rev. Bohner said, "so you will have to learn to express yourself as a real person; you will have to sift and relate information from others and decide for yourself . . . do not let yourself be dominated by the rest of the world . . . how it approves of us; how it judges us. You must relate life to yourself, and think for yourself as a real person," Rev. Bohner continued.

In referring to life's difficulties, Rev. Bohner said, "The cure lies in human relations and not alone in law or in education, but in the 'person.'"

"Times have changed because of 'character' in men; we need men, we need women with character; no system of life can be perfect without character of their men and women," Rev. Bohner said as he ended, "In your vision of life, do all you can."

The graduating class was introduced by Wally G. Butz, principal.

John C. Mills, supervising principal, presented the graduates, saying that, "They are here not by chance; there was effort behind their achievement."

John Rinker, president of the board of education, awarded diplomas to each graduate.

As Commencement exercises neared their close, Valedictorian, George Dorshimer, addressed the group on the importance of understanding and learning to live with "The People of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republic" and the nations of the communist bloc.

MULTIPLE SCLEROSIS

By Dr. Thomas F. Snyder D. C.

MS; a disease of the brain and spinal cord with steady degeneration of nerve tissues, causing paralysis and disorders of sensation and feeling. MS generally begins with weakness in arms and legs, dizziness, and emotional difficulties. Tremor of muscles in hands and legs and difficult speech appears later.

Gradual hardening of the tissues produces a wide variety of symptoms extending over periods from two to ten years or longer. Previous falls, accidents or emotional shocks are found in most cases. In a recent study, it was noted that many MS cases improved under Chiropractic care due to fact that permanent nerve damage was arrested and some of the degeneration recovered.

Who brought the silly-wonderful grin to Harry's face?

His sweetheart Louise, of course.

She's 617 miles from him, but they keep in touch on the TELEBARGAIN.

TELEBARGAIN? Sure, because the telephone's one of the happiest bargains in the family budget.

Today you can call anywhere in the country for $1.00 or less* after 7 PM every evening and all day Saturday and Sunday.

Miss someone? Ask Harry how fast a phone call can remedy that. Then call your Louise tonight . . . Mom, Pop, Uncle Al, or anyone else you love. And remember—every time you use the phone, it's a TELEBARGAIN.

Teacher protection may be at end

School teachers throughout Pennsylvania last Monday were informed that they could be reasonably certain that they were going to be voted an increase in salary.

True, the $44,700,000 total was short of the $54,000,000 requested by the teachers, but it was a raise. The amount was approved by legislative conferees and was a compromise between the $54,000,000 approved by the House of Representatives and the $36,000,000 package suggested by the Senate.

If the $44,700,000 package becomes a reality, it will be presented to the teachers in one of two ways. It may be given as $300 to each teacher or a seven and one-half per cent increase in the district's subsidy payment. The individual districts could decide which option would net more funds.

We are pleased that the increase in salary seems assured for the deserving teachers—but only those who deserve a raise in pay. Deserving teachers should be paid as much money as can be correctly allocated for salaries.

However, for sub par teachers who have hidden behind the protection of tenure for years, the salary increase still in the works is actually a warning. It could very easily be the end of tenure as we know it today—the act which protects a teacher's position after three years of service.

Tenure was originally formulated in the days of low teaching salaries and little additional benefits. If nothing else, it did guarantee an individual his job.

Salaries are now reaching such a stage that only the best teachers can be retained by school districts, most of whom are waging a tremendous battle to keep their heads above water.

As in every other walk of life, only the best will be served in education—which is the way it should be.

Damage lies in dreams

Our nomination for the meanest man on Memorial Day was the individual or individuals who marred the Memorial Day celebration conducted by the Evans-Blitz American Legion Post.

Although the weatherman tried to curtail the celebration, it was actually the human element that took some of the glow off the annual celebration, during which those who died in warfare from Barrett Township, were honored.

Twenty-five flags were stolen from a string between Marie's Drive-In and The Forks, in Mountainhome, took an edge off the tribute to the memory of those men who have fallen in battle so that there would always be freedom in the United States.

On the surface the theft doesn't appear large—and speaking from a monetary angle it wasn't. However, the theft of an American flag or American flags is always serious.

In the case of a theft of a flag, it is the thought that counts, especially when flags are scheduled to play a part in a ceremony—such as the one conducted on Memorial Day.

We are forced to feel that those individuals who took the flags had little thought for the memories of those who have fallen in battle through the years so that there would be freedoms available to us—like competent representation in court.

At times like this apparent thefts of little damage actually turn into events of much value. The value lies in the thoughts and memories of departed servicemen and the realization as to what these departed warriors did for us as individuals and the United States in general.

Thefts of little value have a way of suddenly becoming major in calibre.

Truth

Sometimes the kindest thing you can do for people is to tell them a truth that will prove very painful. But in so doing, you may have saved them from serious harm or even greater pain. In a world such as ours, people must learn to "take it." A painless world is not necessarily a good world—Sylvanus and Evelyn Duval, syndicated columnists.

Eating—Slenderness

The fact that so many women are afraid of getting fat seems simple—but isn't. I have no quarrel with the desire to be slender; it is consistent with good physical health.

But I am concerned with women's obsessive worry about weight and eating—it amounts to a food phobia—with diet faddism, and with the seemingly prevalent anxiety about how their eating habits look to others. Even the most modest dessert is consumed with the preface, "I really shouldn't but ..."

It is as if women cannot take eating as a matter of course, but are constantly involved with it—and suffer guilt feelings in relation to everything they eat. I cannot help but ask: What price slenderness?—Dr. Natalie Shainess, New York psychiatrist and psychoanalyst.

Tribute to editor

CHARLOTTE, N.C.—The night was gentle and the silhouette of the big green hills shouldered the stars. Cars were parked, headlights blinked off, and spruced parents hurried across the campus of Belmont Abbey College to Haid Gymnasium. Inside, 130 youths sat in serried ranks, the folds of the black academic gowns looking older than the faces, the mortarboards squares on a giant checkerboard.

This was graduation night. The slow procession of the faculty, the priests who had hammered information and knowledge into many heads started from the Oak Room and followed the solemn walk in curves and arcs. At the rear, walking beside the brilliant cense of Bishop McLoughlin of St. Petersburg, was the short, chubby figure of Kays Gary. I had come from home to see an honor accorded to him. Tonight he was to get a doctorate in human letters.

It was worth the trip. Gary is living proof that if you bat your head against a wall long enough, the wall will fall. He is the lord high columnist of lost causes, the St. Jude of Journalism. He works for the Charlotte Observer, a well-edited organ in an erudite city. What he writes would draw red corpuscles from a rock.

He has a lovely wife and a pretty, brown-eyed daughter of college age. He has intelligence, imagination, a heart of debts. Those items, and some scurrilous letters from anonymous readers, are all a columnist requires to remain in business. Kays Gary had to push it a little further.

Shocks institution

Years ago, he learned that Sister Marie Patrice had shocked a nearby institute of learning by bringing home a baby with a head about three times the size of its body. It was hydrocephalic and the parents said they didn't want it so Sister Marie Patrice took it. The superior, Mother Benignas, was in shock. Kays Gary, who is not Catholic, thought it was a lovely story.

A little while showed that the sovereign state of North Carolina has no provisions for dying babies. An infant must be six years or older to rate official attention. So Gary, Sister Marie Patrice, a rabbi and a Baptist minister worked out a little scheme. Let her go out and collect unwanted babies; the rabbi and the minister would enlist aid in Charlotte, and Gary would ask his readers for old foreign coins that might be redeemed for bottles of milk.

There is now a place called Holy Angels Nursery, a sunlit building full of mongoloid babies, hydrocephalic babies, and a couple of blind Negro babies who are mentally retarded. All losers. Recently, Gary started a fresh campaign for old bottles and money to build a new nursery for more unwanted infants. He is also working on a Boys' Town for Charlotte.

I watched him march in the procession, a slash of gray showing under the black mortarboard, the grin more nervous than happy. Once in the gymnasium, the faculty climbed the creaky stage and sat.

Behind the level floor of graduates there was a balcony wave of beaming mothers and fathers. This scene, I knew, was repeated in hundreds of colleges across the country. The degrees of Bachelor of Arts, and Bachelor of Science were being handed to scores of thousands of young men and women.

The Very Reverend Jude Cleary, president of the college, called upon the wise head of Father Cuthbert E. Allen, executive vice president, to read the citation involving Gary. It was a big moment for him, but it was a bigger one for me. For the first time in my life, I was watching a great heart, not necessarily a great head, win a top award.

Cowl of Office

The cowl of office was lifted over his head, and the rich colors of the doctorate cascaded around his neck and down his back. He made no speech. Gary said "Thank you" and sat down. The students must have known that a few hills away, there was a place that was supposed to be a seat of learning for girls, but which Gary and Sister Patrice had diverted into an assortment of pink cribs. Because without warning, all the students got to their feet and there was a surge of thunder that cracked the old beams in the ceiling.

Gary sat and began to study his feet, which are unremarkable. Then he glanced surreptitiously to his right. There, in the front row, sat Sister Patrice, who doesn't belong to Belmont Abbey College. Before her were two wheelchairs. In one was the first little girl she brought home. The kid doubled-crossed everybody by not dying. She is 13, and was wearing her first earrings.

In the other chair was "Captain Billy," so crippled that this little unwanted will never walk. The little ones laughed and clapped. Sister Marie Patrice looked at Kays Gary and held her head a little too high. In that way, nothing falls from the lower lid.

City sinks into mud

WASHINGTON — As I write this, a hard, driving rain is beating against the office windows and the temperature is in the low 50s. Except for one or two days of sunshine, the weather has been like this for more than a week.

Down by the Lincoln Memorial, of course, there is gloom, despair and more than a little mud. In truth, folks there are so muddy, it is difficult to tell the poor people from the television crews. The temporary, plywood shacks, as well as some of the occupants, are slowly sinking out of sight.

Many of the demonstrators have decided to go home, to better climates and living conditions. They are ignoring the promises of their leaders, who vow to picket the U.S. Weather Bureau until something is done about this unfair downpour. One leader has demanded that Congress prohibit rain, but so far, the Congress has not acted.

While I do not wish to further discourage the demonstrators, I must report that my private source at the Weather Bureau hints that it may rain for 40 days and 40 nights. He suggested also that while drainage ditches might help the situation on the Mall, a prudent man would be wise to build an ark.

Welcome rain

Meanwhile, oddly enough, in other quarters of the city, the rain has been welcomed. As a matter of fact, I've never seen a more popular rain. One downtown businessman, who simply closed up shop for the summer due to the lack of tourists and the reluctance of suburbanites to come into the inner city on buying trips, had looked forward to playing golf all week.

The rain spoiled his golf plans, but, instead of making him grouchy and irritable, I found him huddling over with good spirits. "Ah, this wonderful, beautiful, glorious rain," he said. "Think how good it is for the grass. And the little flowers. I've always loved the little flowers, you know. I hope it rains 'till Labor Day, at least."

This is unconfirmed, but there are rumors that one group of Washington business leaders has started a fund to bring here some of the world's leading rainmakers. "Look how bright and clean this lovely rain makes everything," a restaurateur told me. "See how it makes the tree leaves glisten. We've never really appreciated rain before."

Out at the airport I chanced to meet a Congressman friend who has a private pilot's license. He had just landed after seeding the clouds. Asked for a statement, he said, "Let us say that I'm merely helping the Lord His miracles to perform."

Harris survey

50 per cent of U.S. people pessimistic over peace talks

BY LOUIS HARRIS

The American people are skeptical over the peace talks in Paris between the United States and North Vietnam. Although 88 per cent affirm that they would "really want to see a negotiated settlement in Vietnam," only 25 per cent are confident that the current talks will end in peace. Twice that number, an even 50 per cent, are pessimistic and feel the talks will get nowhere.

It would be a mistake, however, to assume either that the American people see any easy, alternative road to peace in Vietnam or that they have yet become disillusioned with the Paris negotiations and want to break them off. Most expect the talks to drag on for a long time. The prevailing mood in this country is a relatively patient wait-and-see view of the negotiations.

Sphere of influence

By a 3-1 margin, people would favor a neutralized South Vietnam, inclined to neither the United States nor a Communist sphere of influence. But, by 2-1, most Americans reject the notion of giving the Viet Cong "some minimum representation in the South Vietnam government."

It is fair to conclude from these results that any final settlement which resulted in the participation of the National Liberation Front in the government of South Vietnam could meet with considerable resistance at home. Nonetheless, the American people do not appear to be insisting that a postwar regime in Saigon necessarily has to be pro-United States.

A carefully drawn cross section of 1,116 persons was asked in mid-May:

"As you know, negotiations are now going on in Paris between our government and North Vietnam to end the war in Vietnam. Do you think these negotiations will end in an honorable settlement of the war?"

PARIS PEACE TALKS FORECAST

	Total Public
	Per Cent
Will end in honorable settlement	25
Will not end war	50
Not sure	25

Even the minority of the public that is optimistic about the Paris talks does not see any early agreement. Many remember the extended negotiations at Panmunjom that settled the Korean conflict. They were asked:

"Do you feel that the peace talks in Paris will take a long time, even years, to settle the war, or do you feel a settlement can be reached in a shorter time, such as a matter of months?"

TIME TO GET SETTLEMENT

	Total Public
	Per Cent
Take a long time	57
Take a shorter time	37
Not sure	6

To test the range of public willingness to compromise in the ultimate settlement, the cross section was asked the following questions:

"In the peace negotiations, would you favor or oppose our agreeing to give the Viet Cong—the Communists—some minimum representation in the South Vietnamese government?"

REPRESENTATION FOR VIET CONG

	Favor	Oppose	Not sure
	Per Cent	Per Cent	Per Cent
Total Public	26	52	22
By education
8th grade or less	19	48	33

Total Public	60	20	20
By education
8th grade or less	48	18	34
High school	59	23	18

It is clear from these results that the better-educated and more affluent sector of American public opinion is more willing to make greater accommodations in a settlement than is the case with the lower-income and less-well-educated segments of the public.

Roscoe Drummond

This man McCarthy

SAN FRANCISCO — Even before the crucial California primary, one sure verdict can be rendered.

Whatever Eugene McCarthy's political future, American politics will not be the same because of him.

He has already shaped the climate of the pre-convention campaign and may well have determined the Democratic nominee.

It seems evident that more than anyone else: McCarthy generated the tide of voter opinion that influenced the President to withdraw.

His willingness and success in challenging LBJ in New Hampshire propelled Sen. Robert Kennedy into the race after he had said that he could "foresee no circumstances" which would cause him to do so.

He has kept Bobby on the defensive with the result that Kennedy is emerging as a weakened candidate and McCarthy could be the decisive factor that tilts the decision to Vice President Hubert Humphrey.

It has been authoritatively confirmed that McCarthy did tell reporters that if he can't get the nomination himself he would back Humphrey over Kennedy.

Great impact

This is only a part of it. In the judgment of one of his top California organizers, McCarthy's impact on Politics U.S.A., 1968, is far greater than can be measured in delegates.

"Weather or not Gene is nominated, we've won already," he said—and he meant it. This is what he meant:

1—McCarthy has taken the issue of Vietnam to the people at the highest level of national debate and forced a dialogue among all the Presidential candidates. This was not only good for McCarthy politically, it was good for the country emotionally. It greatly reduced frustrations by providing the assurance that Vietnam policy be settled not alone in the White House but by open public debate. It was like opening the windows of an overheated room.

2—McCarthy's candidacy, his centering his campaign on Vietnam and his significant success in New Hampshire—these things together—undoubtedly constituted a factor in persuading Johnson to make another bid to Hanoi to enter peace talks.

I do not look on the President's peace initiative as a reversal of past policy or departure from it. More than two years ago he offered Hanoi an even greater inducement to negotiate—a 37-day total cessation of bombing before he gave up hope that North Vietnam would respond. But it is clear that the mounting demand in the U.S.—in which McCarthy played a considerable part with an announcement which showed that it had no personal, political motive, "Thus McCarthy and his supporters are understandably convinced that he had a vital role in helping to move Vietnam to the conference table.

3—Finally, this man McCarthy, himself a former college professor and unashamed egghead, has brought thousands of once alienated college and high school students back into the mainstream of American politics. Gene attracts the students to a new form of activism; they are ready to do anything to help further the McCarthy cause. They are finding that using the democratic process is better than trying to destroy it. Even if McCarthy doesn't make it, I doubt if they will withdraw from society.

McCarthy is setting a high standard of political campaigning. It's refreshing. His calm, conversational style enhances his credibility. He doesn't tailor his speeches to his audiences; almost the opposite; he aims to persuade the unconvinced, as when he outlined his liberal welfare program to the conservative Commonwealth Club of San Francisco.

McCarthy's stature has been lifted greatly in recent months and, if his future is to be only that of Senator, his will be a powerful voice.

Lester Coleman, M.D.

Alcoholism is disease

The disease of chronic alcoholism is under constant study by teams of research workers in many major hospitals of America.

Alcoholism is a disease, a severe organic, physical, chemical, and emotional disease. When this is recognized without shame then families whose lives are always tottering on the brink of destruction because of the "hidden alcoholic" will speak out their secret problem and secret shame to their doctors.

Chronic alcoholism as a disease is only a shame when it is neglected and when it is permitted to inflict the devastation it does on families and communities.

Dr. Frank A. Seixas is editor of the physician's Alcohol Newsletter which compiles and distributes the most modern medical, chemical, and psychological advances to physicians all over the world, in an effort to relieve the chronic alcoholic from degradation and the destruction of a valuable life.

It is admitted that Alcoholics Anonymous is probably one of the single most potent forces in the rehabilitation of the alcoholic and has returned thousands to functioning productive citizens. Dr. Seixas acknowledges the importance of Alcoholics Anonymous and urges that the alcoholic come out of hiding in order to be helped to survive by this agency and the other methods that are now available.

A center for the study and treatment of alcoholism is called ACCEPT which functions under the supervision of the medical society of the county of New York. In conjunction with community and social organizations, psychiatrists, psychologists, social workers, and physicians are combining their efforts to study and treat the total person in his own social surroundings.

There is no single treatment for this disease and, therefore, there must be complete coordination of all treatments available in the positive pursuit of the rehabilitation of the alcoholic and in the prevention of the illness in the young adult.

Dr. Arnold Zetner, a psychiatrist working with ACCEPT said, "Frequently the alcoholic's job is the last remaining vestige of self-esteem that the patient (the alcoholic) still has available to him." He points out the interesting concept that when his job is threatened, this becomes a more "effective deterrent" than even the jeopardy to his marriage or his health.

Producers of the "How Sweet It Is" movie spent $50,000 on one three-minute bordel scene. . . Only the little reminds us of Jackie Gleason (the film blatantly lifted The Fat One's TV catchphrase he really should have registered in Hollywood himself) but it also reminds us of the time Gleason lavishly furnished an East Side apartment here with gilt-everything, floored walls, all very Gleason. . . Jackie invited Art Carney up for a look-around and Art said nothing until the tour ended. . . Whereupon Gleason asked, "How d'ya like it, pal?" . . . Art replied straight-faced, "If the Rockefellers ever owned a house of prostitution, this would be it."

The revival of "The King and I" at New York City Center is a total delight, a beautiful performance by lovely Constance Towers as Anna; Michael Kermoyan is a stronger, better-voiced King than Yul Brynner in the original company; Eleanor Calves as the young star-crossed lover has a beautiful voice and a limpid personality perfect for the part; Anita Darian has strength and a fine big plant soprano as Lady Thiang; and the entire Rogers and Hammerstein musical remains a delight; especially The March of the Siamese.

The production, slightly less opulent than the Broadway original, is fine nonetheless and we recommend it without reservation; marginal suggestion: children love it—they even cheer at the end.

His "Anzio" performance already is called Oscar-size from previews but Peter Falk can't take the dozens of higher-fee film

Just Between Us—

By Bobby Westbrook

Downtown was as congested as in the days before the Throughway when it took a half hour to get from Fifth to Ninth Streets. Apparently the weather, which prevented residents and visitors alike from doing their thing, channeled them all into town where at least they could look at different faces—not to mention bare knees and feet.

And this year the college boys are as interesting to look at as the girls with the variety of beards and sandals which they are anxious to show off before family pressure builds up enough steam to make them uncomfortably warm no matter how cold the weather stays.

One telephone call showed a different type of congestion: can you tell me how to get rid of chimney swifts who are nesting on our porch?" she asked. Turns out she isn't anti-bird, just anti-litter and swifts can be just as bad as pigeons.

She doesn't want to turn the family cat on them. "And besides he's a coward who let some nesting chickadees drive him out of the back yard," she confessed. I suggested some noisemakers on the porch, but she already has built-in noisemakers in her two children plus the neighbors' children who play on the porch without disturbing the birds in the least.

She's got a worse problem than those of you with numerous relatives in nearby cities. At least they'll have to be back to work today.

Mrs. Douglas Ernest Waldmann (Arnold's Studio)

Waldmann-Dishman wedding held here

STROUDSBURG — Miss Barbara Marie Dishman became the bride of Douglas Ernest Waldmann in a double ring ceremony performed by the Rev. John J. Bendik at Matthew's Church, East Stroudsburg, on Saturday, May 18 at 12:30 p.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Michael Dishman of 552 Scott Street, Stroudsburg. Mr. Waldmann, the son of Mrs. Arlene Graver Waldmann of Bath Pa., and Ernest Sigmund Waldmann of Allentown, is with the U.S. Army stationed at Fort Sill, Oklahoma.

Mrs. Joseph Shukaitus, organist, played "Shumann's Ave Maria," "Liebestraum" by Liszt, "Ave Maria" by Gounod, and Bach selections. Henry John Dishman, brother of the bride, served as acolyte.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length fitted sheath of white crepe with scooped neckline and long sleeves. From the neckline flowed a cage of sheer net on which cascaded applied lace flowers, each centered with an antique pearl. The cage formed its own chapel length train which was bordered by white crepe. The headpiece, specially designed for the bride, was a camelot hat of white crepe bordered by rows of clustered pearls from which fell a four-tiered veil of imported French silk illusion. The bride carried a bouquet arrangement of white orchids and ferns.

The four sisters of the bride served as her attendants. Mrs. Michael E. McMahon of Scranton was matron of honor. Her floor-length gown of aquamarine chiffon over crepe was highlighted by ruffles at the V-neckline and sleeves, and by a wide satin belt at the empire waist. The ensemble was completed by an aqua satin ribbon wound through her coiffure of French curls. She carried a bouquet of deep pink cymbidium orchids.

Miss Eleanor Mary Dishman, maid of honor, and Miss Mary Ann Dishman, bridesmaid, wore floor length gowns of azalea pink crepe, deep ruffles bordered the V-necklines and wrists of their identical dresses. Gathered cocktail skirts fell from wide satin belts. Their headpieces were tiered crowns of pink crepe ruffles. Each carried a bouquet of light pink cymbidiums.

Miss Christine Dishman, junior bridesmaid, wore an empire floor-length dress of azalea pink crepe bound by satin at the rounded neckline and bell sleeves. She carried a basket of cascading bridal wreath.

Frank Dacheille of State College, fraternity brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Paul Gress Adams and Charles Churilla, also fraternity brothers; Richard M. Dishman, Jr., brother of the bride, and Michael E. McMahon, her brother-in-law. They wore boutonnieres of deep pink roses.

The bride's mother was attired in a flamingo pink wool suit dress with matching accessories. She wore a white The mother of the bridegroom wore an A-line pannelled dress of pink and white silken material and a matching turban. Her corsage was of white gardenias and baby's breath.

A reception for 100 guests followed immediately at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Peter Ryckman, 712 Thomas Street, Stroudsburg. Mrs. Ryckman is the godmother and aunt of the bride. Music for dancing was provided by Tommy Cullen. After a buffet dinner, the couple left on a brief honeymoon trip. For traveling the bride chose a mint green satin coat dress with white accessories.

The bride is a graduate of Stroudsburg High School and The Pennsylvania State University. The bridegroom graduated from Northampton High School and also from Penn State.

Mr. Waldmann has just returned from Fort Sill where he is awaiting further orders.

A pre-nuptial shower was sponsored by Miss Marcia Patts of Latrobe. The rehearsal dinner for the bride party was given by the mother of the bridegroom at her home in Bath.

New methods to old faith challenge to religious

MOUNT POCONO — Teachers of religion must seek new methods and approaches in presenting the unchanging faith, Sister M. Laurencia, IIM, principal of the Pocono Central Catholic Elementary School said at the annual communion breakfast of the Altar and Rosary Society of St. Mary of the Mount church held at Sun & Ski Lodge.

Children should be approached not as what they ought to be but as what they are now, and they should not be taught to recite words and prayers that they do not understand or cannot really mean, she said, in discussing teaching the catechism.

"Christianity is an approach to living a rich and full life in Christ," she said, "Children need to experience it in a gradual manner as something of their own and which they can share with others."

Sister Laurencia received her B.A. degree in elementary education from Bloomsburg

State College and her M.A. in education from Marywood. She has done further studies and research at the Catholic University of America, the University of Dayton, Duquesne University and University of Notre Dame.

She was introduced by Mrs. Alexander Karoyli, president. The committee in charge of the breakfast was Mrs. Joseph Battisto, Mrs. Peter O'Brien, Mrs. James Trombetta and Mrs. Robert Madigan.

Entertainment was provided by John Ashcroft of Stroudsburg who played the guitar and sang a selection of folk music. Rev. John A. Walsh, moderator, spoke briefly.

The next meeting will be held Wednesday, June 5 at 6 in the church auditorium.

Think about it

The other night my telephone rang around midnight and a friend of mine on the other end asked brusquely, "Who wrote 'Gentleman's Agreement'?"

"Was it Thornton Wilder?" I asked sleepily.

"No," he snarled, "He wrote 'Main Street'... or was it 'Babbitt'?"

"No," I answered, "Wilder wrote 'Skin of Our Teeth.' I remember when Jackie Gleason did it on television with Judy, what's-her-name."

"Anderson? Andrews? Adams? Christie? Meade? Garland?"

"Wilder didn't write 'Babbitt,'" I said, "Eugene O'Neill wrote it."

"Are you sure?"

"I'm as sure as I am that Robert Sherwood wrote... you remember... The one with Humphrey Bogart and Joan Leslie."

"That was Leslie Howard," he said, "Besides, that was written by George S. Kaufman."

"What's Sherwood Forest?"

"The play written by Robert Sherwood."

"You're thinking of an old Richard Greene movie with Beulah Bondi."

"Who's Beulah Bondi?"

"I don't know, but she's in everything."

"I'm going back to the party," he snarled. "Think about it and call me."

I stared at the ceiling, my eyes bugged like a tourist who had driven from Florida to Ohio in 18 hours.

"Who wrote 'Gentleman's Agreement'?" I asked my husband, shaking him awake.

He stirred sleepily. "It was Sinclair Lewis, wasn't it? Or was it Lewis Stone? Or maybe I'm thinking of the Andy Hardy series with Mickey Rooney... who was that dark-haired girl?"

I snuggled down in the covers and smiled. "Think about it and let me know," I said.

And that's the way the memory game is played.

Ann Landers

Need new friends

Dear Ann Landers: Several months ago our son was involved in a prank which turned into a problem with the police. The boys were not put in jail, but they were reprimanded by the judge and suspended from school for the remainder of the semester. The story made the newspapers and my husband and I were very unhappy about it.

have proof that they have been intimate. When I confronted Martha with the evidence several weeks ago she screamed, "We are going to be married next year. Get off my back."

my husband I was going to "whale the tar out of that kid if he ruined anything else. He said, "You can't touch him. He's not your child." Is he right?

Our son is back in school now and doing beautifully. We have had no trouble with him since that unfortunate episode and think perhaps it helped give him a sense of values.

Martha walks with a limp and feels she is lucky to have a boyfriend because of this small defect. I am worn out from trying to talk sense into her head. She accuses me of being old-fashioned and meddling in her personal affairs. Last week Martha threatened to move out of the house and live with her boyfriend if I didn't quit picking on her.

Dear Boiling: Children who are permitted to run wild and destroy property grow up to be a problem to themselves and to everyone else. You should insist that the child behave in your home or not come back, and your husband should back you up. Where's this poor kid's mother, anyway?

The problem is this: Six or seven people in our social group keep bringing up the incident—asking questions and probing to learn if there was more to it than the newspaper printed. Whenever the subject is brought up my husband goes into a depression and is quiet for the remainder of the evening.

My heart is heavy. I feel as if I have failed completely. Our two older daughters married fine men and have lovely families of their own. I fear this girl is going to wind up in deep trouble. Should I keep talking to her or should I give up?

If you have trouble getting along with your parents... if you can't get them to let you live your own life, send for Ann Landers' "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom." Send fifty-cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope. Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

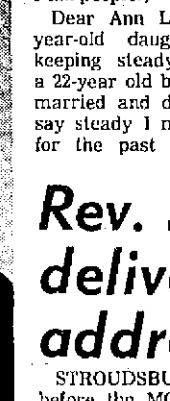

Please give me a few Landers-type sample sentences to shut these people up. Thank you kindly, Ann.

Dear Gning: Your daughter knows your speeches by heart so stop wasting your time. Unfortunately, the limp has probably given her a sense of inferiority if not utter worthlessness. Girls who feel worthless often pick boys as boyfriends. Have you considered professional help for her?

Dear Ann Landers: My husband's six-year-old nephew is wrecking our marriage. Last weekend the boy walked on our couch with his muddy shoes, wrote on our hall walls with red crayon, tore up three new magazines and ripped apart my flowered hat. Yesterday I told

Dear Enough: You don't need sample sentences. You need new friends. (I notice you live in Minneapolis. Try some St. Paul people.)

Dear Ann Landers: Our 18-year-old daughter has been keeping steady company with a 22-year old boy who has been married and divorced. When I say steady I mean every night for the past eight months. I

Autopsy rules out foul play in connection with dead man

EAST STROUDSBURG — An autopsy performed Saturday on Robert G. Stegway showed no evidence of internal or external trauma, but some laboratory tests are being made to learn what might have caused the man to end up in a culvert dump hole along Rt. 715 in Jackson Twp.

Monroe County Coroner John C. F. Foelker ordered the autopsy Friday, after the missing New Jersey man's body was found by two 14-year-old boys who were walking along the highway.

Foelker said, "In addition to not finding any evidence of a trauma, it was learned the man was dead approximately five days."

Judging precipitation mighty difficult task

STROUDSBURG — Residents in most portions of Monroe County have had almost six days of steady rain, but judging from official U.S. Weather Bureau statistics, not much rain fell.

The U.S. Weather Bureau at Avoca Airport in Scranton, Sunday night, reported that a total 4.64 inches of rain fell during the month of May. The average for May is 3.95 inches.

Since Tuesday however, more than the 4.64 inches of rain fell in some portions of Monroe County.

A Weather Bureau spokesman at Avoca said that their weather stations were on the fringe areas of the storm which dropped buckets of rain onto Monroe County last week. The Avoca station has an eight-inch rain gauge plus weighing gauge at Mt. Pocono.

No true picture could be gathered on the exact rainfall in Monroe County throughout the last few days or the entire month, for that matter.

William Hagerty, an official U.S. Weatherman, of Neola, reported a total rainfall of 6.82 inches, according to his precipitation gauge.

The Avoca weather station measured .54 inches on May 28; .70 May 29; .28 May 30, and .16 May 31.

Hagerty measured .50 inches May 28; 2.25 May 29; .50 May 30; .06 May 31, and 1.05 June 1.

Two accidents in Stroud Twp.

STROUDSBURG — Stroud Twp. Police were busy over the weekend investigating two accidents and a burglary.

Sunday at 9:30 a.m., they investigated a three-car accident on Interstate Rt. 80, in back of the Pontiac Garage no injuries were reported.

According to police, a car driven by Timothy P. Carlin of Fairlawn, N.J. was traveling east when he lost control of his car. The car skidded in the two-lane highway.

The second car, driven by Vincent J. Busch of Hempstead, N.Y., was also traveling east. He swerved to avoid the Carlin vehicle, and slid on the wet highway. The two cars collided.

The force of the impact caused both cars to cross the medial strip and into the westbound traffic lanes.

The busch car crashed into the guard rails and the Carlin car collided with a car driven by Thomas J. Chontos of Cliffside Park, N.J.

Police estimate total damage at $1,000.

At 3:55 a.m. Saturday, police were called to Wallace Street, in back of the municipal building, for a one-car accident.

Mrs. Yvonne G. McClay, according to police, was traveling south when she apparently fell asleep and collided with a fire plug.

Mrs. McClay refused treatment at the scene, police said.

Sunday, police were called to the Dale Larn gas station to investigate a burglary.

Entrance was gained through a front door. Once inside, articles, including ice cream, chewing gum and hair shampoo, were taken.

It is believed the burglary occurred Sunday between 1 and 9 a.m.

Township adopts two taxes

ECHO LAKE — The one per cent earned income tax and the $10 occupational privilege tax were enacted Friday night by the Middle Smithfield Township supervisors.

Both taxes will be shared with the East Stroudsburg Area School District. The income tax will be shared on an 80-20 per cent basis for the fiscal year beginning July 1 with the school receiving the large share.

The occupational tax will not require additional taxpayer expense but will return half of the $10 to the township treasury with the other half going to the school district which has had this tax in effect for the past two years.

Previously, the entire amount of tax paid by persons employed in the township went to the school district.

The really transfer tax of one per cent was re-enacted, revenue from which will be shared with the school district.

John J. Eekes, work unit conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service, gave the supervisors a large township map which can be used in determining future planning and sewage projects.

Sterling Schoonover, secretary, said the supervisors plan to work closely with the SCS since the supervisors plan to watch closely with the SCS since the supervisors plan to watch closely the use of township land by outside developers.

Monroe Co. firemen attend two-day training school

DALEVILLE — A total of 435 firefighters participated in the 30th annual fire school over the weekend at Daleville sponsored by the Northeastern Pennsylvania Volunteer Firemen's Assn.

A total of seven Pennsylvania counties and three from New York state comprise the northeastern association.

Stroud Township firemen Ray Silver and Roy Lesoine participated in the school.

James H. Oakley of Tobyhanna, was director.

Oakley said Sunday night that 35 women participated. The women enrolled in courses which involved instructions to babysitters on what to do in cases of emergency.

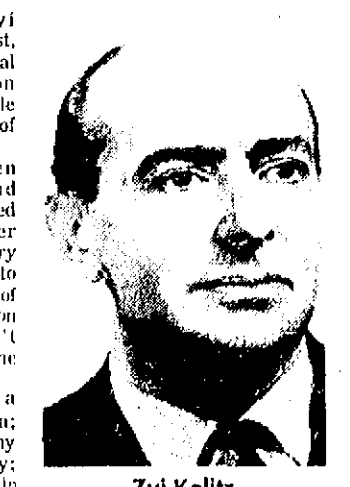

The 400 firemen, who participated in courses on basic pumping, advanced pumping, first aid, structural fires, problem fires, rescue, masks, extinguishers and hose evolution, burned up 1,200 gallons of gasoline and 1,500 gallons of fuel oil during the training sessions.

Oakley said the National Foam Co. of Philadelphia demonstrated the use of foam in smothering a fire. Representatives from the firm built a two-story frame structure with the foam.

"The foam came out of the upstairs window," Oakley said. The building had 10 rooms.

Officials of the Greyhound Bus Co. on Sunday demonstrated fire fighting techniques in buses. Firemen were shown the various escape points in the bus and how to rapidly extinguish a fire.

Joseph Eck, assistant fire chief of the Coalbaugh Twp. Volunteer Fire Co., assisted Oakley at the Fire School.

Tigers win 2nd for split; lead AL by three games

DETROIT (AP) — Mickey Stanley capped a six-run, fifth-inning rally with his first career grand slam homer and southpaw John Miller fired a six-hitter as the Detroit Tigers whipped the New York Yankees 8-1 for a split of their Sunday doubleheader.

The Yanks snapped a five-game Detroit winning streak with a 4-3 victory in the opener, scoring the tie-breaking run in the ninth on a disputed play at the plate.

The split, before a crowd of 43,912, left Detroit three games ahead of second place Baltimore in the American League race. The Orioles beat Boston 4-3 Sunday.

Stanley belted his third home run of the season off loser Steve Barber with the bases loaded in the fifth inning of the nightcap after an error by first baseman Mickey Mantle set the stage. Five of the runs off Barber, just recalled from Syracuse, were unearned.

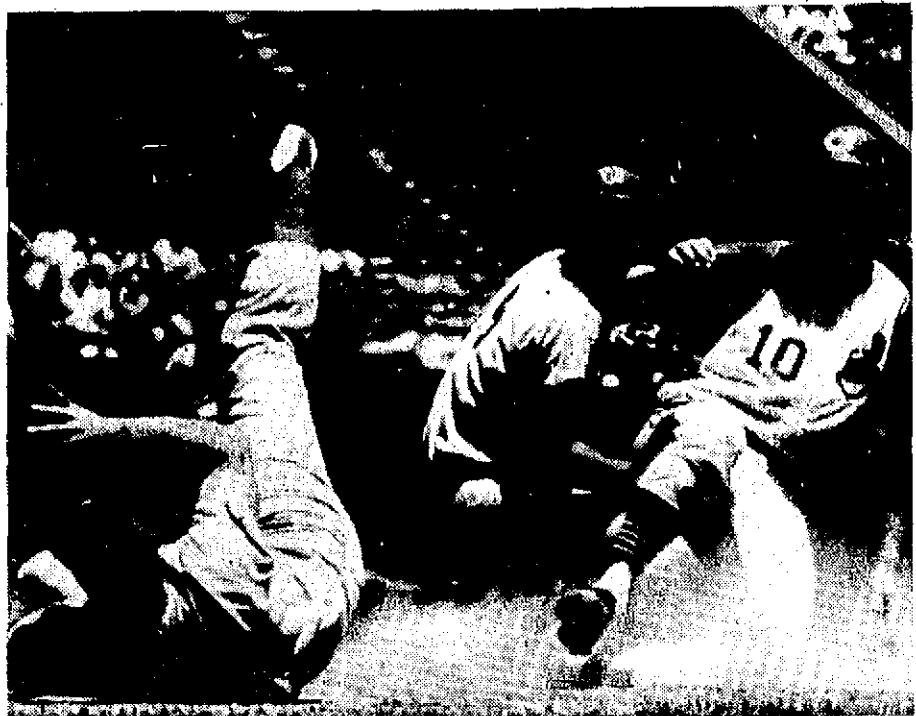

Hiller, making his first start this year, was in control all the way in gaining his third victory against one loss. He blanked the Yankees until the ninth, when they scored on singles by Bob Cox, Ellie Rodriguez and Gene Michael.

The Yankees battled from behind to win the opener when Tom Tresh slid home under Price's tag following Cox's grounder to shortstop Ray Oyler. Tresh had led off the ninth with a double off loser Jon Warden and moved to third on an infield grounder.

Braves cop 2nd for split

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Deron Johnson cracked four singles, including a key hit in Atlanta's five-run seventh inning explosion, as the Braves clobbered Pittsburgh 10-5 Sunday to gain a doubleheader split.

The Pirates won the opener 8-4 behind the booming bat of Willie Stargell, who drove in four runs with a homer, a double and two singles.

Stargell slammed a two-run homer—his fourth the last four games—and Roberto Clemente followed with a bases-empty blast in the first inning of the nightcap, staking Steve Blass to a 3-0 lead.

But the Braves got one run back in the fourth, when Felix Millan doubled and came around on a wild pitch and a ground out, and scored another in the fifth when Felipe Alou stroked his fifth single of the day, driving in Cleve Boyer.

Felipe Alou singled again in the seventh, driving in the tying run. He stole second, went to third on Millan's single and scored the go-ahead run when third baseman Gary Kolb bobbled Henry Aaron's hard grounder.

After a walk to Tommie Aaron loaded the bases, Johnson singled in two runs and Sonny Jackson capped the five-run uprising with the fifth single of the inning, scoring Aaron.

The Pirates scored two runs in their half of the seventh on a walk and doubles by pinch hitter Chuck Hiller and Matty Alou.

Stargell's run-scoring double in the seventh inning of the opener tied the game 4-4. He scored the go-ahead run on a single by Matty Alou before Carl Taylor's two-run single completed the decisive four-run rally.

Cardinals sweep Mets, 6-3, 3-2

NEW YORK (AP) — Roger Maris raced home from first base on Orlando Cepeda's pop fly single in the seventh inning and the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the New York Mets 3-2, completing a sweep of a Sunday doubleheader.

The Cardinals took the first game behind Bob Gibson 6-3 with Dick Simpson contributing a two-run homer.

The second game was tied 2-2 when Met starter Don Cardwell walked Maris with two out. Cepeda's blunder fell in short right field and Maris circled the bases on the play.

Dick Hughes got relief help from Joe Hoerner and Ron Willis in gaining his first victory of the year after two defeats. Cardwell is 1-6.

The Cards jumped ahead with single runs in the second and third innings. Mike Shannon doubled and scored on Julian Javier's single in the second and Curt Flood singled and scored when Don Bosch dropped Maris' fly ball in the third.

Ken Boswell's homer and a sacrifice fly by Bosch after Cleon Jones had doubled and stole third, tied it for New York.

Seven-run rally gives Nats split

CLEVELAND (AP) — Bill Bryan's three-run homer touched off a seven-run Washington rally in the eighth inning and the Senators got four-hit pitching from Jim Hannan for an 11-3 victory over Cleveland and a split of Sunday's doubleheader.

Joe Azcue slugged five straight singles and Larry Brown had four in a row as the Indians took the first game 10-5 before 49,922 fans—the largest crowd here since 1955.

Hannan retired 26 consecutive batters after allowing a leadoff double and a homer by Lee Maye in the first inning. Then May tripled and Max Alvis singled before Hannan got the final out.

The 28-year-old right-hander called up last week from Buffalo, was protecting a 4-2 lead in the eighth when errors by Chico Salmon and Alvis set the stage for Bryan's shot. Then the Senators scored four more with Ed Stroud, Frank Howard and Bernie Allen delivering RBI singles.

Washington grabbed the lead in the fifth, loading the bases with none out and then scoring on Hannan's squeeze bunt and a sacrifice by Del Unser. Unser had doubled and come around to score in the fourth.

White Sox take pair from Twins

CHICAGO (AP) — Gerry McNertney laced a run-scoring single in the ninth inning, giving Chicago a 4-3 victory over Minnesota that completed a Sunday doubleheader sweep for the White Sox.

Chicago won the opener 3-2, McNertney delivering the deciding run with an eighth-inning squeeze bunt.

Pinch hitter Ken Berry started the Sox' winning rally in the ninth inning of the nightcap with a single off reliever Ron Perranoski. Buddy Bradnord sacrificed pinch runner Sandy Alomar to second and Tim Cullen drew an intentional walk before McNertney scored Alomar with a single to center.

Minnesota's Tony Oliva had tied the game 3-3 in the eighth with his second homer of the nightcap and sixth straight hit of the day.

Chicago took a 1-0 lead in the first inning on Tom McCraw's run-scoring single. The Twins tied it in the second on Oliva's fourth homer of the year and went ahead two pitches later when Harmon Killebrew broke an 0-for-14 slump with his 10th homer.

Bradford beat out a bunt in the bottom of the second and Cullen smacked a two-run homer, giving the White Sox a 3-2 lead.

Lunn three-shot winner in Atlanta

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Muscular Bob Lunn, the cool California kid who won his first pro title only a week ago, claimed his second straight championship Sunday by firing a finishing 69 for a three-stroke triumph in the Atlanta Classic Golf Tournament.

Playing with the poise of an old pro, the 23-year-old newcomer collected a $23,000 pay-off with a 72-hole total of 280 strokes, eight under par on the rugged Atlanta Country Club course.

Lee Trevino charged out of the pack with a string of birdies on the front nine, sank an eight-foot birdie putt on the 18th and won the $13,800 runnerup spot with a closing 69 for a 283 total in his best finish on the tour.

Tied for third at 285 were four other non-winners on the tour—Lou Graham, Frank Beynon, Rocky Thompson and Paul Bon-deson—as the newcomers on the pro circuit continued to push the big names into the background.

Gary Player of South Africa eagled the 18th hole with a long, curling putt to salvage some honor for the veterans, shooting a 73 for a 186 and a tie for seventh.

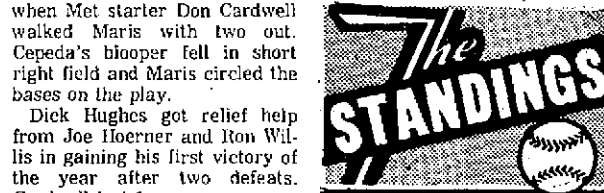

Jack Nicklaus and defending champion Bob Charles were among the handful deadlocked at 288. Arnold Palmer and Doug Sanders were even farther back, turning in six-over-par totals of 294.

They were no match for the mechanical play turned in by Lunn who had never won a tournament until he captured the Memphis Open last Sunday. Lunn vaulted to sixth place in this year's money list with winnings of $57,931.

"Gee, I'm happy," Lunn said. "I played just like I have for the last couple of weeks—consistently."

"I'd have to say that some good putting has made the difference for me," added the San Francisco native who developed his game on municipal courses and never went to college.

Until he won at Memphis, Lunn was just another unknown on the tour. But, he said, "I never got discouraged. I knew it took a long time to get going out here."

Cubs won't move games to Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—The Chicago Cubs are playing too well to consider scheduling some home games at Milwaukee, according to owner Phil Wrigley.

"We will definitely not move any games to Milwaukee," Wrigley told Bob Wolf of the Milwaukee Journal.

The Chicago White Sox have scheduled 10 home games at County Stadium this year, and some Milwaukee officials proposed the Cubs follow suit in view of the National League's refusal last week to put an expansion team here.

"A few years ago, yes, we probably would have done it," Wrigley said. "But we spent 21 years in the second division and now the fans are showing interest again. Public relations-wise, moving games out of Chicago now would be disastrous."

Wrigley said his stand does not preclude future Cubs' exhibition games here. His team and the White Sox played to more than 20,000 in an exhibition at County Stadium April 6.

Surging A's whip Angels behind Nash

OAKLAND (AP) — Right-hander Jim Nash extended Oakland's string of complete games to six Sunday, hurling the Athletics past the California Angels 5-2 with a five-hitter.

The victory was the fifth for the surging A's in their last six games.

The A's raked California starter Jim McGlothlin for five doubles and an inside-the-park homer by Reggie Jackson in the seven innings he pitched.

Floyd Robinson ripped a pair of doubles, scored two runs and drove in another while Jackson had a single in addition to the first inside-the-park shot ever hit in the Oakland Coliseum and stole two bases.

Nash struck out the side in the first inning, fanned two more in the second and finished with eight strikeouts in squaring his record at 4-4.

Robinson doubled in the second inning, moved to third on a single by Jim Pagliaroni and scored as Danny Cater grounded into a doubleplay.

Don Mincher homered for the Angels in the fourth.

McCarthy-Kennedy debate highlights

NEW YORK (AP) — Following are highlights of the discussion Saturday night in San Francisco between Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and Eugene J. McCarthy on ABC radio and television.

Q. What would you do to stop violence and riots in this country?

Kennedy: "I would help police departments through funds ... I have gone into the ghettos ... and said we can't solve these problems overnight ... I think we have to provide jobs with the government being the employer as a last resort and then bringing the private sector in in a major way ... doing away as much as possible with the welfare system ... and getting people jobs by giving the private sector tax incentives and tax credits."

McCarthy: "I think I am in general agreement ... there ought to be federal money given to state and local authorities ... that the use of either federal troops or national guards should be a very reserved use ... and what we have to do is to begin to build a million houses a year for the low-income people. Unless we do that ... no matter how many police we have ... there will be some violence."

Q. If you were president, what would you do in Vietnam?

McCarthy: "I would be de-escalating the war in Vietnam and drawing back from some of our advanced positions while still holding strength ... I would not have the secretary of state making statements about how we would have no coalition government to come out of the conference in Paris ... I'm not particularly concerned whether it is called a coalition or fusion ... and we have to recognize that that government will include the National Liberation Front."

Kennedy: "I'd pursue the negotiations in Paris. At the same time I'd make it quite clear that we would expect Saigon ... to begin their own negotiations with the National Liberation Front. I would be opposed to what I understand Sen. McCarthy's position is of forcing a coalition government on the government of Saigon, a coalition with the Communists even before we begin the negotiations ... that should be determined by the negotiators, and particularly by those people of South Vietnam."

"I would demand privately and publicly an end to the corruption that exists in Vietnam ... I would make it clear as we went along that the South Vietnamese are going to carry more and more of the burden of conflict."

McCarthy: I didn't say I was going to force a coalition government on the South Vietnamese. I said we should make clear we are willing to accept that. If the South Vietnamese want to continue to fight, work out their own negotiations, that's well and good.

Q. What about tax increases — the President has made a very strong appeal for a 10 per cent surcharge.

Kennedy: "I have said that I would take an increase in taxes. I think the 10 per cent is too high, and I think it's too unfair to middle income groups ... Secondly, I would like a tax reform program ... there are dozens of people who make more than a million dollars a year who pay no taxes at all ... I think it's unjust and unreasonable ... I would like to see a program so that all people pay their just share of taxes."

McCarthy: "I think everyone is for that; the question of eliminating inequities in the code; these real loopholes were the things we should have attacked in the big tax cut of '64 ... So far as the surtax is concerned, I recommended earlier that they use credit controls and some selective excise tax ... I think we may have to be forced to ... a surtax of six or maybe eight per cent ... six per cent plus a $8 billion cut in expenditures."

Q. President Johnson has been emphasizing that, no matter who is the next president, the United States will keep its commitments in Asia. What do you think?

Kennedy: "I expect that we are going to remain in Korea. I think we have a position around the world that we cannot ignore. I don't think that position rests on military power so much as what our moral leadership is ... I think that aggression would be against the United Nations, which is still the power in South Korea ... I do think we have some commitments around the globe ... to Israel, for instance ... but what I don't think is that we can be policemen of the world."

McCarthy: "I have been a strong defender of President Truman and his intervention in Korea. I think we have clear obligations to the Chinese in Formosa, Taiwan. We have clear obligation to the Japanese by virtue of the treaty ... we have a clear moral, legal responsibility in the Middle East to Israel, and also I think a strong obligation to maintain strength in NATO."

Arms shipments

LONDON (AP) — More than 70 Labor party members of Parliament have signed a motion calling on the government to stop arms shipments to both sides in the Nigerian civil war. It views with alarm pessimistic reports from Kampala, Uganda, on current peace talks there between the Nigerian federal government and secessionist Biafra.
